

Extension Lecture
Open Educational Resource
23-January-2024

The Institute of Vocational Studies organized an insightful extension lecture on "Open Educational Resources" (OER) on 23rd January 2024. The event was conducted seamlessly on the online platform Google Meet, providing participants with a convenient and accessible learning experience.

The lecture was exceptionally well-structured and received positive feedback from the attendees. The use of a PowerPoint presentation added significant value to the session, as it was not only comprehensive but also delivered in a detailed manner. The content covered every important aspect of the topic within the allotted time, showcasing the speaker's expertise and the organizers' commitment to delivering quality educational content.

The PowerPoint presentation was a highlight of the lecture, incorporating various multimedia elements such as illustrations, precise pointers, mind maps, and diagrammatic representations. These visual aids not only enhanced the overall learning experience but also made complex concepts more accessible and digestible for the participants.

What made the session even more commendable was the efficient time management, ensuring that all key points were covered without exceeding the allotted time. The engaging nature of the lecture kept participants actively involved throughout, fostering a conducive learning environment.

Towards the conclusion of the meeting, the organizers took a proactive approach by circulating a feedback form. This initiative aimed to gather collective responses and valuable suggestions for potential improvements, reflecting the institute's commitment to continuous enhancement and addressing the evolving needs of the audience.

The extension lecture on Open Educational Resources was an enriching experience, characterized by its well-organized structure, engaging content, and effective use of multimedia elements. The positive reception and the thoughtful inclusion of a feedback mechanism underscore the commitment of the Institute of Vocational Studies to delivering high-quality educational initiatives in the realm of Open Educational Resources.

Glimpses:-

